For both styles, load muslin, thin batting, and the apron top fabric. Set your machine to 14 – 16 spi and set it to stop at jump stitches.

Place pattern so will quilt on fabric and begin to quilt:

On Doll Apron, it will quilt the outside line, then move in and quilt all the stars. It will pause after quilting stars and allow you to put ribbons in place and backing.

I used regular tape to hold the edges of the ribbons down. I cut the ribbons about 12" long. Be sure the ribbons are at least ½ inch inside the edges so they remain free when the backing is stitched on. I curled all the ribbons in the middle then laid the backing down, right sides together. Finish quilting. Pull off machine, trim right up next to the outside stitching line, clip corners and turn. I used my domestic machine to top stitch around apron.

On Doll Apron Star, it will quilt the outside line then pause and tell you to place your applique fabric in place. Once that fabric is in place, quilt, it will then pause and allow you to put ribbons in place and backing. Do a rough trim of the star before placing the ribbons on top of the pattern. On this little apron, I used colored elastic for the top instead of ribbons, easier for little fingers.

I used regular tape to hold the edges of the ribbons down. Be sure the ribbons and elastic are at least  $\frac{1}{2}$  inch inside the edges so they remain free when the backing is stitched on. I curled all the ribbons in the middle then laid the backing down, right sides together. Finish quilting. Pull off machine, trim right up next to the outside stitching line, clip corners and turn. I used my domestic machine to top stitch around apron. Do your final trim around the star. Press if you have used fusible on the back of your applique fabric.
